Dear Ms. Romano,

With your commitment to help build a home for a desperate family, you have truly become their superhero.

Often, poor families' homes are made of whatever materials they can salvage — plastic sheeting, cardboard and string. These structures are no refuge for rest, but part of the risk they must endure every day.

Luckily, you have stepped forward so a locking door will shield innocent children from outside dangers such as marauding strangers and rodents. Strong walls in place of a patchwork of metal scraps and plastic sheeting means no more fears of storms. A real floor instead of a dirt one will lift families from the mud and provide a solid foundation for building happy memories.

Your sacrificial generosity will be part of a family's life as a manifestation of God's great mercy, in all its glory.

"You will not fear the terror of the night, or the arrow that flies by day, or the pestilence that stalks in darkness or the destruction that wastes at noonday."

(Psalm 91:5-6, NRSVCE)

Thank you for coming between outside dangers and a poor family and giving them a new strength to face the world. May God bless your heart with the same peace you have provided.

In service of the poor,

Ed.
