Dear Lyn Romano;

Few things are more meaningful — and vital — than reaching out to America's wounded service members, as you did with your generous gift. Thank you so much for your remarkable compassion.

For these brave men and women, many of them young adults, your kind, patriotic gesture provides a much-needed boost as they begin new lives after sustaining severe injuries and trauma. As a partner in the Wounded Warrior Project® (WWP) mission to honor and empower wounded warriors, thank you for helping these men and women build fulfilling new futures upon their return home to our great nation, which they so fearlessly defended for you and me.

As soon as wounded heroes leave the war zone and arrive at a hospital, you're at their bedsides, hand in hand with Wounded Warrior Project. Through a broad spectrum of WWP programs, you stay with them throughout their recoveries as they heal. Many people will say they support our troops, but you put those words into action with your recent gift.

Imagine a warrior who sacrificed limbs or sight in Iraq or Afghanistan now skiing down the side of a mountain, starting college, helping a fellow wounded warrior, or beginning a new, exciting career! These images come to mind when I reflect on the power of your recent gift to WWP. You have my deepest appreciation. Thank you!

Saluting Your Generosity,

Michael S. Linnington
